

tracking petroleum industry
campaign contributions

Follow the Oil Money

www.FollowTheOilMoney.org

Do you know how much money Congress takes from Big Oil?

Visit FollowTheOilMoney.org, the new tool that tracks which corporations pump dirty oil money into politics, who gets it, and how it relates to key votes on climate, energy, and war.

What you'll see is oil money gumming up our democracy. In fact, Members of Congress who vote in favor of Big Oil take almost four times more oil money than those who vote in the public interest for clean energy, climate initiatives and for an end to the Iraq war.

FollowTheOilMoney.org documents the striking connection between oil dollars and bad votes.

Join us to demand a Separation of Oil & State: S.O.S. – not just a call for help, but a way to address the cycle of high gas prices, wars over resources, and climate disasters.

Getting dirty oil money out of our democracy will free up our system to once again serve the people – ushering in a transition to a green and fair future built on sustainable energy.

www.FollowTheOilMoney.org

This tool will expand to include coal and tar sands money, so check back often to stay up-to-date.

