

WHO WE ARE

Oil Change International was founded to conduct systemic campaigns to end our oil dependence. Our staff and Board have decades of experience holding Big Oil accountable on the frontlines from Alaska to Nigeria, Ecuador to Kazakhstan.

Clean energy advocates have noted for decades that the barriers to a clean energy transition are political, not technical. We are the first group dedicated to identifying and overcoming political barriers to clean energy.

Our mix of unique research tools and targeted actions enable citizens, policy staff, students and others to see the slick of oil influence in our democracy and then act effectively to break the patronage relationship between Big Oil and our Congress.

Oil Change's analysis is critical to helping move understanding of the link between wars for energy resources, climate change, conflict in developing countries and the "drilling to the ends of the earth" mentality that threatens local ecosystems and communities around the world. Without the understanding of the true costs of our addiction to fossil fuels, we will not be able to move from a system based on a fossilized energy source to a new clean way.

WE WORK ON OIL

Organize and build grassroots power in the US to bring about a Separation of Oil and State. As the only public interest organization focused entirely on the oil industry, we provide analysis to help policy makers, students, activists and citizens understand the dynamics of the world's most powerful industrial sector. We campaign to make any money to or from the oil industry and our representatives a political liability. We demand an end to Big Oil campaign contributions, as well as tax breaks and subsidies to the oil industry.

Investigate oil companies and their political connections and subsidies. Our innovative databases provide comprehensive information for journalists, activists and lobbyists that are found nowhere else. These resources are the backbone for achieving a Separation of Oil & State.

Lead the campaign to break the control of Big Oil over our democracy by building alliances around the world. We coordinate the End Oil Aid coalition with members from Africa, Asia, Europe, and South America. We work with indigenous peoples, debt campaigners, Bank-watchers and the climate community to bring together broad coalitions with shared goals that will lead to a just transition to a clean energy society.

It's time to Separate Oil & State!

IT'S TIME TO GET INVOLVED.

Our addiction to oil is at the core of several of the most pressing issues of our time. Big Oil money gums up our political process and prevents our governments from working in the public interest on global warming, human rights abuses, war, national security concerns, corporate globalization, and poverty.

We believe the key barriers to a green energy transition currently are:

The power of Corporate Oil Money in our Congress through donations from the industry and subsidies to the industry

The myth that oil production and consumption brings affluence, fueling the use of international development funds to subsidize the oil industry

The first step in ending our collective addiction to oil is reducing oil's influence over our politicians. It's time to ensure that our government represents us, not Big Oil!
